

IEC students visit Sydney Harbour

On the 22nd of March, all the IEC students went to Sydney Harbour by train to learn about Sydney Harbour and other important places in Sydney.

First we met at West Ryde station at about 8.40. Then we travelled to Central by train and we changed trains at Circular Quay. After we got off the train at Circular Quay, we boarded a ferry beside the train station.

On the ferry, we filled in the worksheets by listening to the guide, and looking at things. We got off the boat and had lunch at Kirribilli Park at about 12.00, and a lot of the students took photos there.

After lunch, at about 1.40, we started to walk across the Harbour Bridge. We used a lot of time to walk across the bridge and we had a little rest.

On the way back to Circular Quay station, we saw some actors, but I didn't really like them. We caught the train and travelled back to west Ryde station, and ended our excursion.

I had a good time because I hadn't been to Sydney Harbour for about five years, and I hadn't sat on a boat for five years too.
